History Makers

Leave no one behind. That was the challenge left to us over 70 years ago by Mary McLeod Bethune. Born of slave parents in 1875, Mary McLeod Bethune was a noted educator, humanitarian, and an advisor to four U.S. Presidents. In 1935, Mary McLeod Bethune had a vision.

In 1966, Dr. Dorothy I. Height established NCNW as a nonprofit organization to further the growth of the organization. She worked in the capacity of Executive Director and Chairman of the Board until her death in 2010.

In 2012, Ms. Ingrid Saunders served as National Chair. She accomplished Sponsor-for-Change through leadership in social investment and philanthropy, with focus on the development and engagement of women as advocates for quality of life and community.

Dr. Johnnetta Betsch Cole became Spelman College's Seventh President and the first Black woman to lead the College that was founded specifically for the education of women of African descent. In 2020 Dr. Cole was selected as National Chair and 8th President of NCNW during the virtual session of the 59th Biennial National Convention in Washington, D.C.

Dr. Thelma Thomas Daley 8th National President of NCNW and is a Distinguished Counselor- Educator, organization leader and Administrator, and college professor. She is an American counseling Association Fellow and a National Board-Certified Counselor.

The creation of the National Council of Negro Women, Inc. (NCNW) marked a unique aspect of African American history. NCNW was the first national coalition of black women's organizations. Through the early work of Mary McLeod Bethune, and with the support of like-minded organizations, NCNW worked tirelessly to promote its agenda of uniting and educating women on the effective participation in civic, political, and economic activities.

Known as the major advocate for black women, NCNW served as a unifying force – forming a power block determined to focus on key social and political issues, and influence legislative decisions that directly impacted black women and their families.

Its humble beginnings held great promise of coalition building and collaboration. Working together, with a unity of purpose and action, NCNW has used its collective strength to create an effective and influential movement. And NCNW continues to play a powerful role in the lives of black women worldwide.

NCNW IS ALIVE AND WELL!!!
